WHIG NOMINATION.

FOR CONGRESS

ISRAEL WASHBURN, Jr.

☞ There is some dissatisfaction felt by a portion of the loco party in Maine to the nomination of Gov. Hubbard, partly on account of the manner of his nomination by a legislative caucus, partly, on account of the official appointments he has made, and partly by his attempting to ride two horses on several issues in his political party. These elements of discord among his political associates and the determination of some of his former supporters to give him political slaughter, seems to have sadly frightened the editor of the Gardiner Fountain, the organ of Temperance in Maine, and led him to come out in favor of the election of Gov. Hubbard as a temperance movement, and as essential for the success of the temperance cause and the maintenance of the liquor law. This is, outrageous, and we protest against it as a whig, and we solemnly protest against it as a temperance man, and a friend and advocate of the law.

The whig party of Maine has not yet made its nomination of a candidate for Governor, and until this has been done it is premature and unjust for the Temperance organ to set up a special advocacy of Gov. Hubbard, for the temperance cause has not, and does not, depend solely upon the loco party for its support. Nor by any manner of means can Gov. Hubbard be deemed an active friend of the cause, or a shining light in it, either by personal habits or by vigorous advocacy. His whole temperance course consists simply of two actions, the first that of placing his name to the liquor bill, and even this his friends say was placed before him under such circumstances, that, if he had the spirit of a man he could do no other wise than sign it. And the second that of presiding for a brief period, at the State Temperance Convention for political effect, to gratify his political friends. Gov. Hubbard is very poor stock out of which to make a temperance candidate, although some of his political associates thought he would "make a good enough Morgan until after the election."

It would have been time enough for the Fountain to have acted in the premises, if action on its part had been deemed necessary, after the whigs had made a nomination, and that nomination should have been found objectionable.—But there is no apology or excuse for the specimen of "early rising," which the Fountain has shown in behalf of Gov. Hubbard.

Now our convictions are very strong, amounting to the fullest assurance that the candidate of the Whigs will be no such man as to justify the Fountain or any other temperance paper or any temperance man in opposing, but that they will, instead, feel disposed to favor his election, or at least, be perfectly satisfied with the election of such a man.

We protest against the course of the Fountain, as a temperance man, because we think it wrong in principle, and perfectly suicidal to adopt Gov. Hubbard as, par excellence, the temperance candidate. A man's true quality is according to his life—the superstructure formed by the laying up of his daily doings. In this view Gov. Hubbard can hardly be claimed as a very notable tee-totaller. Then again as there are so many other elements of political and personal character brought against him, that it is inexpedient and hazardous to undertake the hard job of sustaining him as a temperance candidate. It is attaching the cause to a sinking concern. Temperance will have in such a struggle the additional labor of sustaining the candidate instead of gaining anything from him.

The election of Gov. Hubbard, should such a thing happen, will be claimed, and rightfully and justly, too, as a political victory, in which temperance has no substantial part. He was nominated by a loco convention, he is sustained by the loco press, he will be voted for by the loco party, and therefore no temperance editor should undertake to enforce upon temperance whigs the propriety of voting for him. It is truly said and unjust and wrong in the editor of the Fountain, unless he has gone over, and body and body, to the loco party, to urge upon the temperance community a candidate, as a temperance man, who occupies the position of Gov. Hubbard, who is so very wiley that he thinks he can straddle two issues and successfully cheat both sides.

☞ The Penobscot County loco convention for the choice of a delegate to the Baltimore Convention assembled at Exeter, on Thursday last, went in for an out and out endorsement of the finality of the compromise measures, to a degree that cannot but be extremely agreeable to even Gen. Foote. The fun of it is that those measures need no strengthening from any quarter. They were about all final in themselves, and of the others it is sufficient to say that about every body agrees to the obligations of the Constitution and to the authority of laws framed in accordance therewith. About every body, even the most rabid, have abandoned all idea of upsetting the Constitution and the Union, and cutting up Jack by resisting the regular laws of the land. The country stands well and will be likely to stand without the little grop of the resolutions of the Exeter Convention.

☞ Arrangements have been made with the agent of the steamer Governor, to carry the delegates to the State Whig Convention at Portland, to be holden the third of June, at half the usual rates, that two dollars for the passage up and back. This arrangement will accommodate a large number of our friends in this portion of the State and they will, doubtless, avail themselves of it.

☞ The New World," the weekly issue from the office of the Boston Daily Evening Transcript, by Messrs. Dutton & Wentworth, the best printers in Boston, and edited by Epes, Sargent, Esq., an accomplished author and editor, is really a beautiful paper in its externals with a corresponding neat and power in its thoughts and contents. It is a first rate family paper, and should, among [illegible] with the finger [illegible] ing and [illegible]

Official Correspondence.

MR. PETERS' LETTER.

Bangor, May 21, 1852.

Dear Sir,

The Convention of the Fifth Congressional District conferred upon me the honor to inform you of your selection as their next National Delegate at Baltimore.

Your preference for candidate for the Presidency is strongly indicated in the Resolutions passed by that body, but it was considered quite unnecessary to instruct you for Gen. Scott. Your early and decided attachment for that great name was at earnest that their own predilections would be lastly entertained at your hands.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN A. PETERS.

To Col. Wm. H. Wells, Bangor.

MEETS OF FIL. MULE

Bangor, May 21, 1852.

Dear Sir:

I am in receipt of your official note of this date, informing me that I was yesterday elected in the Congressional Convention at Dover a delegate to represent this District in the Whig Convention to be holden at Baltimore on the 17th of June proximo, for which distinguished honor I am profoundly sensible. And I have not failed to notice in the journals of the day the resolutions adopted by the Convention, which meet my hearty approval.

While I admire the high minded, honorable, disinterested and efficient course pursued by Mr. Fillmore and by which his administration has been characterized, all my affections are centered upon the illustrious captain of the age, his successor—and whose triumphant success I verily believe is most certain, should he be nominated, than that of any candidate, anywhere, ever before the American people for the same office.

It has been suggested to me that some of my friends would like to be made acquainted with my views in regard to the so called "Compromise Measures." I believe those measures to be well enough in themselves, they are the laws of the land and must be executed as such, as long as they exist, and are to me unexceptionable being constructed upon a "platform" there are no reverse acts of the judiciary laws. If the firebrand should, by any means, get into the Baltimore Convention I shall do all I can to get it out as quick as possible.

Very truly, your friend and ob't serv't

WILLIAM H. MILLS.

Imprisonment of American Seamen.

Benj. Percy Watts, of Warren, Me., Watts while loading at Saint La Grande was visited by officers of Spanish Government and one of the seamen taken off on the grounds that he was a deserter from a Spanish man-of-war.—The day following the Captain was ordered to present himself on the town with two or more of his crew, which he did, and these two men were taken from him and put into prison along with the first man taken—while the Captain could get no answer to his enquiries why this was done. Capt. Watts applied to the American Consul, as agent, and he addressed a letter to the authorities saying that the men should be restored to the vessel, and stating that the Captain was prevented from leaving his vessel—and that he should make his protest against the act. The answer the Consul received was that the authority which took the men from the vessel of any nation, and that the men would not be sent on board again, and that if Capt. Watts made any protest, he would render himself liable to be taken from his vessel, put under arrest, and sent to Havana.

Captain Watts did not know what the result would be though it was certain that the vessel would not be allowed to leave unless she paid all the expenses of the imprisonment of his men as well as those incurred in taking them from the vessel to the town, which is some 20 miles from the Bay.

These facts can be proved by all the masters of vessels then laying in the Port of Saguala Grande, and the protest of Capt. Watts was signed by seventeen of them.

(Signed) Master brig Joseph Albani.

Affair between Hayne and Duncan.—We have already given an account of the unfortunate affray at Covington, Indiana, between the Hon. Edward A. Hannegan, (formerly United States Senator from Indiana, and recently United States Minister to Berlin,) and his brother-in-law, Capt. John Duncan, which resulted in the death of the latter after thirty-six hours of intense suffering. The Lafayette Journal says that before his death he stated, in reply as to the cause of the difficulty, its origin, &c., Captain Duncan emphatically replied, "Nothing, it was nothing," and seemed determined not to reveal anything of what actually occurred, evidence against Mr. Hannegan. It is said that a short time before he died he expressed that he himself was to blame for having slapped Hannegan's face. He died fully and freely forgiving Hannegan, and was buried with Masonic honors from the house of [illegible]. Capt. Duncan was a very [illegible] brother of Mrs. Hannegan who is the object of universal pity. He served in the Mexican war. The anguish of Mr. Hannegan's mind is said to be intense and excruciating. The consequences of this will not have ceased [illegible] the whole family mourning on account of it. Mr. Duncan and Hannegan were warm friends, but unfortunately they were both in liquor, and at the time of the occurrence, as well as the day previous, were intoxicated with liquor.—Boston Journ.

☞ The Bath Maine states that Mrs. Dar[illegible] residing in Winnegance, Me., Saturday before last. Preparations were made for her removal the Sunday following. On handling the body it was discovered to be slightly warm: and there were other indications that although her blood was not perceptibly circulating, she was yet alive. The lance was applied and blood flowed quite freely, and the cold water in a glass by the mouth and nostrils indicated a slight respiration. Up to Thursday the condition appeared to be improving, but there is no signs of consciousness. Her body will be kept until there are indications of decay.

CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, May 22.

In the Senate—The Chair, presented from the Post Office Department, a communication answering Mr. Sumner's resolutions calling for a variety of information. Mr. Sumner moved to print 5000 extra copies. Motion referred.

Mr. Hunter moved to postpone the consideration of private bills until 3 o'clock, and he also gave notice that he would then move to fill up the Deficiency bill.

Mr. Atchison moved the Senate do go into executive session to consider an important Indian treaty. He said that there were 4 or 5000 Indians awaiting its passage. Mr. Hunter's motion was carried.

Mr. Borrien said that he was obliged to leave for Georgia in a few days, and he asked for the consideration of the bill for the removal of obstructions in the Savannah river. Agreed to, and after some debate the bill was ordered to be engrossed.

The bill to increase the salary of the District Judge of Massachusetts was passed.

Messrs. Hale, Fish, Walker, Seward, Cass and Chase, presented memorials asking for the passage of the Homestead Bill. Various petitions on many subjects were also presented.

Mr. Felch, from the Committee on Public Lands, reported a bill giving right of way and lands to the Cleveland and Painesville and Ashtabula Railroad Co. and granting lands to Louisiana and Mississippi in aid of the construction of certain railroads therein.

Mr. Hunter moved, but the Senate refused, to take up the Deficiency Bill, and then proceeded to the consideration of private bills, sixteen of which were passed, and the Senate adjourned till Monday.

In the House.—Immediately after organizing, the House resumed the consideration of the bill relating to salaries of territorial officers.

Mr. Johnson offered a proviso that nothing in the act shall be construed to prevent the payment of the salaries of the Judges and Secretary of the State of Utah, who have withdrawn from that territory for reasons set forth in the report to the President. He said these judges had transacted important public business in the territory, had incurred the danger of travelling, and incurred hardships, and as a simple act of justice should be paid, because they had been removed, this should not be denied them.

Mr. Stewart opposed the amendment, denying that there was sufficient reason for these officers to leave the territory, and he asked the gentlemen whether they were prepared to sanction the doctrine whereby it is difficult to execute the laws, officers should abandon their posts. If they had remained there, they could have furnished the President and Congress with authentic evidence of the proceedings in that territory, and not that what there would now be anonymous communications to two Congressmen unjust measures.

Mr. Johnson asked whether there was any other source from which to gain information except through Brigham Young.

Mr. Stewart repeated that if officers had remained, they could have their own information of the facts as they occurred; but by abandoning their posts they left no one to do it. It was their duty to stay there.

Mr. Johnson said that they were obliged to leave, being in danger of assassination.

Mr. Cleveland advocated the amendment, and said that without investigating the facts, Congress should not punish the retiring officers by denying them their salaries. The President cannot remove Young, because he is the head of the Mormon Church, and such a removal would lead to bloodshed. Two Mormon Judges have been appointed, and will the House refuse to pay those who have been superseded, because they would not turn Mormons?

Mr. Sibley opposed the amendment, as it was incumbent on the House to guarantee to the people of the territory against the evils caused by the continued absence of their officers.

Mr. Meacham replied to Mr. Stewart, that there was great danger to the officers. Their statements show that a member of the Utah legislature threatened, if the Secretary of State did not give up the money, to have his head taken from his body, and tossed into the creek, and threatened the officers, blood if the money should be taken out of the Treasury. But the Secretary brought away $21,000 and deposited it in the St. Louis Bank.

Mr. Jones of Tennessee moved an amendment, the substance of which was to pay the officers from the time they left the States until they returned from Utah.

Mr. Houston said that the Presidents should either have removed Gov. Young or removed the obstructions to the execution of the laws in Utah. It would not do to pay the returned officers until they reached here.

Mr. Polk said that by the act which established the territorial Government of Utah, the President appointed Brigham Young Governor.—Was he a man who could command himself to the moral community? Was he a man who could be recognized in respectable circles? or was to be appointed by the endorsement of the President, and recommended to the country with all his sins and outrages, which he had committed, and was still committing, on not?—The President in considering committed a wrong by appointing Brigham Young, the Mormon, to rule over the territory; committed a crime against morals, religion, and the laws under which we live; and if any difficulty has grown up, we must trace it to that source. Judges were appointed, but they returned, because, as honorable and right-minded men, they were not permitted to perform the duties which the government required of them. They return and make their report. If they are worthy of their position, and come sufficiently and properly recommended by the President, and they are worthy of credence. And what does the President do on the report of the facts? Does he remove Young? No; he removes the gentlemen who state the facts to him, and retains the creature who has defied, and is still defying the public.

Mr. Bissel was unwilling that the House, by any of its actions, should endorse in any degree the conduct of the local authorities of Utah, and he thought it was very important at the present time that they should avoid doing so.—He was in favor of paying the returned officers up to the very moment they resigned, believing they did nothing less than what the interest and credit of Government required.

Mr. Richardson justified the officers for leaving Utah.

Mr. Giddings appealed to the Committee to take a vote on the business, believing that the subject had been sufficiently illustrated to enable them to vote understandingly.

Mr. Johnson's amendment was accepted. Also, one from the Committee on Territories, to the effect that no officer of the territories shall lose his year's pay if absent over 80 days, provided the President is satisfied such absence was for good and sufficient cause—the opinion of the latter to be certified and placed in the Treasury Department.

The bill was then laid aside to be reported to the House.

The bill to establish the Texan Boundary was then taken up.

Mr. Richardson moved an appropriation of $125,000. As he intended to [illegible] gentleman [illegible] $211,000 would be required for establishing the boundary, but only $125,000 this year. The extent of the boundary is 900 miles, and it is necessary [illegible] before settlements are made. Mr. Richardson's amendment was adopted.

The Bill was also laid aside to be reported to the House, together with several others, when the Committee rose, and the House, without finally acting upon them, adjourned.

"Coming Events Cast Their Shadows Before."

The democratic newspapers, foreseeing the almost inevitable nomination of Gen. Scott as the whig candidate for the Presidency, begin to show signs of uneasiness and dissatisfaction. One of them has gone so far as to publish a kind of programme, or outline of the mode of attack which is to be pursued in the campaign against "Old Chippewa." The arguments against him, which the paper referred to says will be used with "terrific effect," are, first and foremost, his "hasty plate of soup," then his letter to the Native Americans, then his letter on free-soilism, and finally his recent compliment to the Irish soldiers who served under him in Mexico. These are to be interlarded with his quarrels with Gen. Jackson, Gen. Pillow, and other heroes with whom he has come in contact—the whole to wind off with a charge of having squandered the public money during the late war with Great Britain. Thus act second of the drama is entirely extra, and is got up out of whole cloth—not having that sensitive peculiarity of modern drama, of being even "founded on fact." Here, then, the whigs may know the worst, in case they have the presumption to nominate Gen. Scott. They do the thing with their eyes open. They have fair warning that some other candidate would be more acceptable to the democrats; and that as the democrats have a deep interest in the matter, they must be consulted, or—something will be let loose.

Well we suppose the chances are that Gen. Scott will be the whig candidate, in spite of all sorts of lamentations. What is more aggravating to his opponents is, the more they abuse him, the more hold he likely to succeed. They abused Gen. Taylor into the Presidency, and they may do the same by Gen. Scott. It touches a raw place in the minds of the masses, to see a man abused who has fought the battles of his country, and led her hosts on to victory.—Gen. Scott has been prominently before the country for many years. The people know him and know his services, and they will protect his fame as a part of the common fame of the nation. A hearty, unrestrained system of abuse, such as has already been foreshadowed by a portion of the democratic press, is all that is wanting to secure his election. He may be chosen even without the inverse assistance; and, at the thing is as good as settled. As a friend of Gen. Scott, then, we do a particular favor that the democratic presses will abuse him most unmercifully. If no other consequence will impel them to this course, we will promise to abuse their candidate as bad as we know how, and will heap as many plates of soup upon him as any sinner ought in conscience to carry.—[Boston Mail.
